A Word from Pastor Ashley

One of the things that I have loved most about this summer at Valley of Peace is seeing how many people have stepped forward to share gifts and remind us that the church is truly a community.

While Beth Brandt enjoys a well-deserved sabbatical, we have been blessed by a wonderful variety of gifted musicians who have led us in worship. Their willingness to share their talents has enriched our worship and reminded us that music is a gift meant to be shared.

And we have seen that theme of gifts throughout the summer. Volunteers, neighbors, and community partners came together to make Blacktop Bash a joyful celebration at the end of June. And, Java for Mama and Papa has become a place of welcome, conversation, laughter, and plenty of delicious treats. Many of you have joined in VoP Connects Groups, Thursday morning Text Study, Rebecca's Circle, Question or 2 and a Brew, and many other gatherings where relationships have deepened and faith has grown.

“Living in God’s love and compassion, we are called to be disciples of Jesus Christ, as the Holy Spirit works through us for healing, justice, and peace.”

A Word from Pastor Ashley

These moments may look different on the surface, but they all share something important in common: people bringing their unique gifts for the sake of community.

The Apostle Paul reminds us that the body of Christ is made up of many members, each with different gifts, all needed for the whole to flourish. This summer has been a beautiful reminder that ministry isn’t carried by one person or even a few people. It happens whenever someone offers music, bakes cookies, pours coffee, asks a thoughtful question, welcomes a neighbor, shares an idea, listens with compassion, or simply shows up.

Thank you for being a community where people are encouraged to use the gifts God has given them. I cannot wait to see what God continues to do through all of us together!

Yours in Christ,
Pastor Ashley

Welcome Jamie!

Hi everyone! My name is Jamie, and I am so excited to be the Discovery teacher and Site Director for the upcoming 2026-2027 school year at LADC's Valley of Peace Discovery Center. I have worked in Early Childhood Education for over 10 years, and I truly love being a part of helping young children learn, grow, and discover the world around them. Outside of the classroom I love making memories while traveling with my family. I am also a proud mom of a two-year-old son, and a brand-new baby girl! I am looking forward to getting to know all the children, families, and church community and having a Blessed year together!

"Let all you do be done in love."
1 Corinthians 16:14

Inclusive Bulletins

As we are planning for fall worship, we are looking at having more inclusive bulletins during worship, such as an “everything bulletin” (bulletin/announcements/hymns all in one bulletin) and large print bulletins. If either of those options would help you, please let Kelsey Pierson at office@valleyofpeace.org know.

Thank you so much!

Summer Blessings Box Needs

You may be surprised by this, but our Blessings Box is still getting used a lot! This week, the only thing left in the box was a bottle of mustard!

Please consider donating things like: cans of soup, granola bars, dry milk, sugar, flour and cereals (even regular size boxes). Things like shampoo, body wash, bars of soap, laundry detergents, socks (for adults and/or children), toilet paper and deodorant can also be very helpful. We can always use feminine hygiene products. Thanks to a donation, we have plenty of toothbrushes and toothpaste right now.

You may bring items to the office at church or right to the Welcome Center. You may even bring your donations directly to the Box if you'd like! If you are someone who doesn't like to shop but would still like to contribute to the Blessings Box, we have volunteer shoppers available to help...just contact me at sally.danielsherron@gmail.com Thank you, thank you, thank you!

Racial Justice

At the beginning of our worship services, Pastor Ashley reminds us of a question from the prophet Micah: "What does the Lord require of you but to do justice, love kindness, and walk humbly with your God?" (Micah 6:8) It is a simple question, but it is not an easy one. As followers of Jesus, we seek to answer it not only in our own lives but also as a church family.

So, what does it mean to do justice?

The Bible uses the Hebrew word mishpat for justice. It means more than simply being fair. It describes building a community where every person is treated with dignity and has the opportunity to live the life God intends for them. Notice that Micah does not tell us to think about justice or simply believe in justice. He tells us to do justice. Justice is something we put into practice. It is action, not just words.

One way our congregation seeks to put justice into practice is through the work of Valley of Peace's Racial Justice Committee, of which I am a member.

What, then, is racial justice?

Racial justice means that people of every race are treated fairly, with dignity and respect. It means everyone should have the same rights, the same opportunities to succeed, and the same protection under the law.

It also calls us to look honestly at our schools, neighborhoods, workplaces, and other parts of our community. Are some people given greater opportunities because of their race? Do others continue to face barriers that are unfair?

If so, how can we, as followers of Christ, help make things better?

People sometimes use the terms racial equality and racial justice as though they mean the same thing, but they are slightly different.

Racial equality means everyone is treated the same. Racial justice goes one step further. It asks whether everyone truly has a fair opportunity to flourish, especially when some people have experienced disadvantages because of past or present discrimination.

Imagine two students taking the same test. One attends a school with plenty of books, computers, and experienced teachers. The other attends a school with far fewer resources. Giving both students the same test is equality. Justice asks another question: How can we make sure both students have the same opportunity to learn before they ever sit down to take the test? For Christians, pursuing racial justice is one way we live out Jesus' command to love our neighbors. It means listening to one another's stories, standing with those who experience injustice, and working together to build a community where every person is valued as a beloved child of God.

In the months ahead, Valley of Peace's Racial Justice Committee will be sharing several projects and opportunities for learning, conversation, and service. We hope you will join us as we seek to live out Micah's call to do justice, love kindness, and walk humbly with God.

Yours in Christ,
Pastor Michael (Mike) Stadie

Children, Youth & Family Updates

In mid-July, several of our youth, Evelyn Anderson and Leah Hepner, as well as Kirsten Kessel and myself, traveled with other youth and chaperones from Holy Nativity and House of Hope Lutheran Churches on a week-long cultural immersion trip to Tahlequah, OK, the capital of the Cherokee Nation. Other+Wise, an organization founded by our host, Vance Blackfox, gave us a chance to learn more about Cherokee history and culture on Turtle Island, what we have come to call North America.

We learned a lot in our time in Tahlequah from just a few of the Cherokee people there. If I did nothing in this letter but give a history lesson, I would barely touch on the tiniest fragment of the history, the culture, the sorrow and joy, and the lessons we learned.

And so I will do something that we and our ancestors have been very good at doing: I will take directly from the people of this land, but I do so in hopes of growing and helping those who read this to grow along with me.

To quote our host Vance, “For the first 400 years of Europeans being on Turtle Island, ‘mission’ meant killing natives. For the last 100-150 years, ‘mission’ has meant serving the poor without asking why they are poor. ‘mission’ is actually relationship. Healing is relationship. Feeding is relationship. ‘Service’ is fine, but knowing how to be in relationship is where mission is.”

Presenting on our trip the Sunday after our return, the scripture reading was of Jesus feeding 5000 (and if you know your history, likely a great many more). Recently, we hosted those in our neighborhood and in our school to a meal. In the celebrations of life we have experienced this year, we have remembered together, we have eaten together, and we have done our best to do some small bit of healing together.

If there is anything, I think, that we have seen all the more clearly in our week abroad, it is that our mission is here with each other, in the neighborhoods surrounding us, with the people whose lands we live and worship on today, and with every person we see and interact with. May we all listen; may we learn; may we heal; may we grow in relationship with each other. May we do what we as a body in Christ have committed ourselves to: to do justice, to love mercy, and to walk humbly with our God.

Thank you all for your support and encouragement on this trip, and thank God for all of you. Amen.

Blessings,

Dan Miller, he/him/his

Deepening in the Valley: Exploring Inclusive Language in Worship

The Worship & Music Team would like to thank the more than 20 people who participated in our first Deepening in the Valley conversation on inclusive language in worship on July 19. Together, we explored words and images for God found in Scripture—some familiar, such as I Am and King, and others less familiar, including housecleaner, mama bear, monster slayer, and even silence. Our conversation centered on the understanding that no single word or image can fully capture the expansiveness of God.

Participants reflected on how language can change in both personal and public settings. We acknowledged that familiar words in our liturgy often carry a comforting rhythm, while new language can invite us to encounter God in fresh and meaningful ways.

The group also discussed thoughtful ways to introduce new language in worship, including:

- Sharing the etymology and biblical context of words and images used for God.
- Introducing new language during a particular liturgical season.
- Using the bulletin, newsletter, and adult education opportunities to provide background and encourage conversation.

This was just the beginning of an ongoing dialogue. If you have ideas, questions, or concerns about inclusive or expansive language in worship, please contact Pastor Ashley or Worship & Music Chair Sara Blood at saranoelblood@gmail.com.

Watch for announcements about future Deepening in the Valley conversations. Topics already identified include worship times, the use of the offering plate, and other aspects of our worship life.

Respectfully submitted,
Sara Blood

VOP Connects

We had such a great time with VOP Connects Group this summer, we are going to offer more this fall! These are wonderful ways to stay connected, have fun, and share our interests in small groups as we deepen relationships.

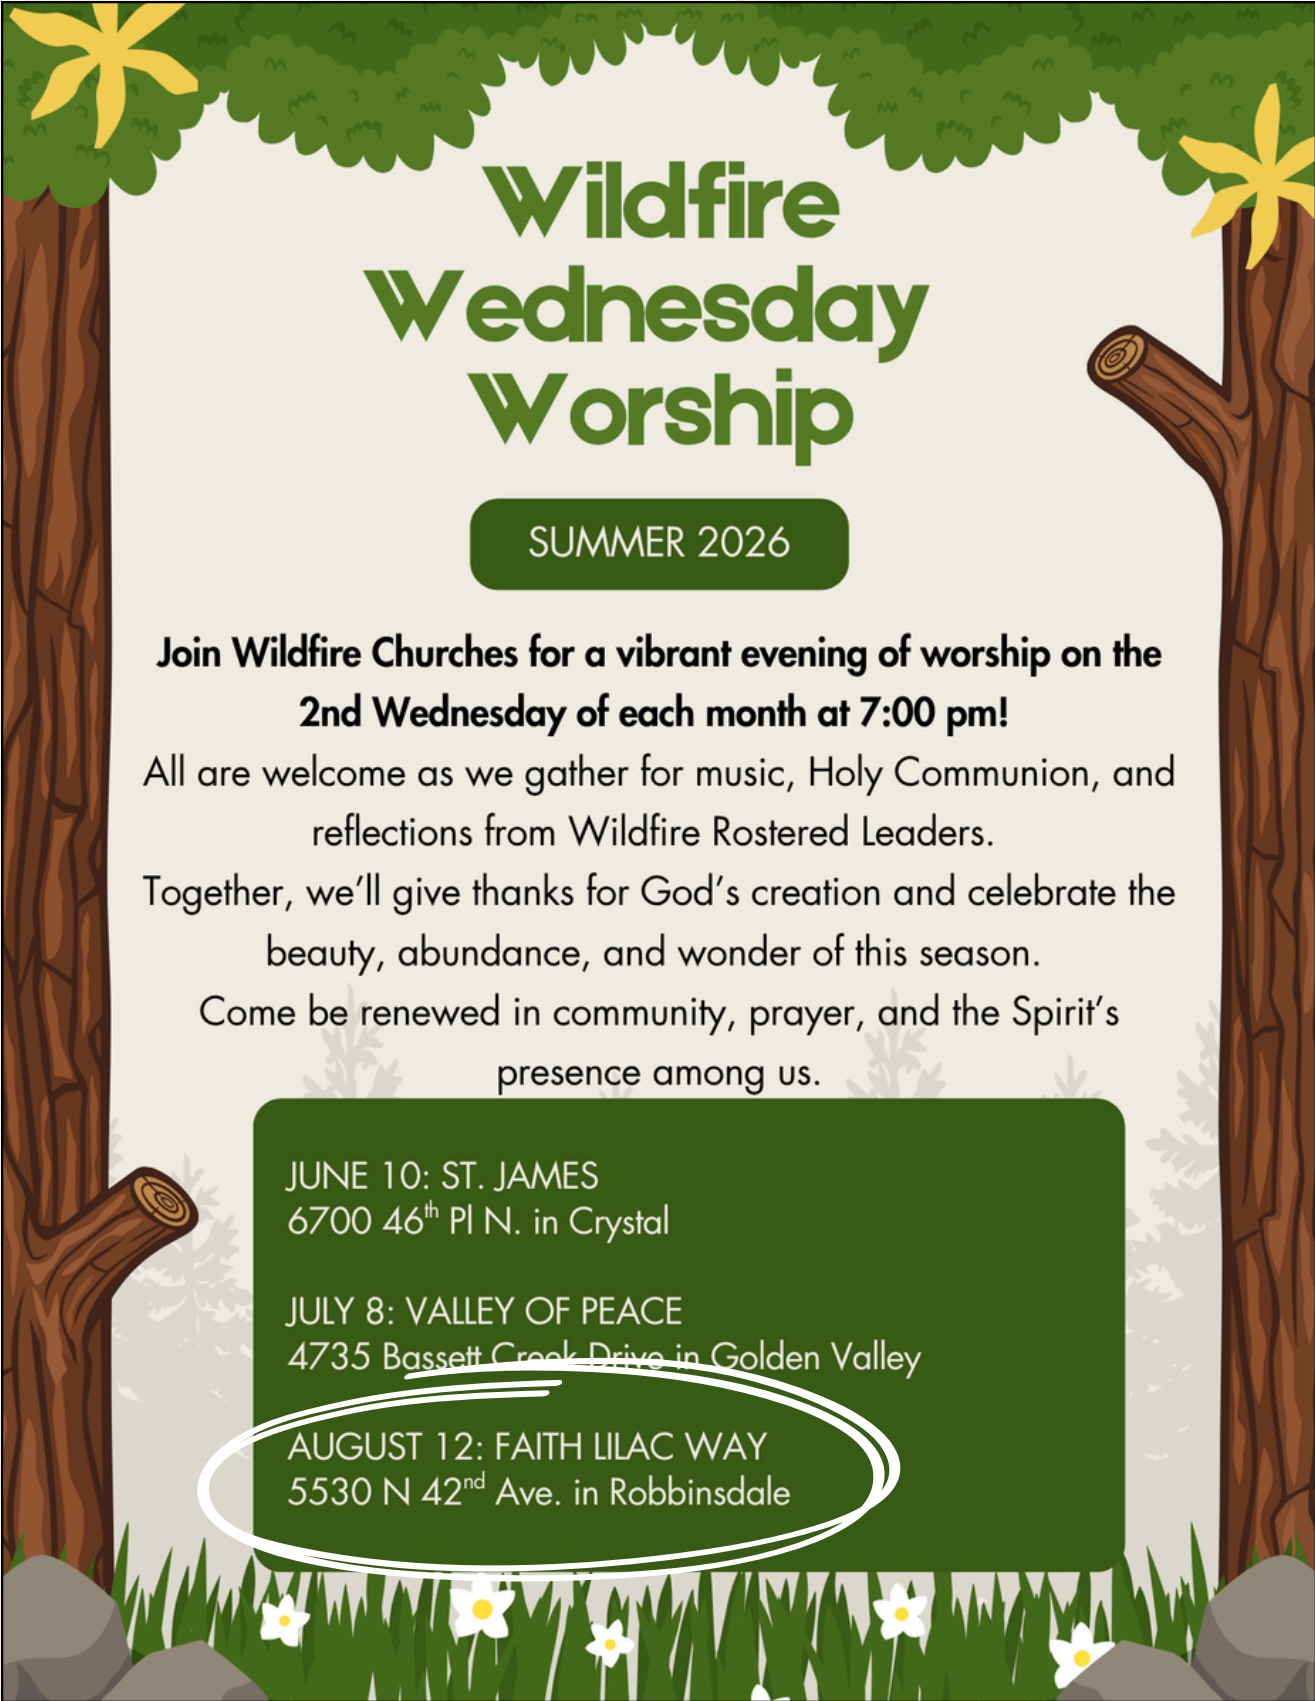

Here is what I imagine for VOP Connects: small, informal gatherings that meet for 3 - 6 weeks, centered around any topic, hobby, or interest that excites you: books, walking, gardening, crafting, music, etc. Each group would ideally have one leader and one partner to host, and you would get to choose the dates, times, location, and how your group meets.

If this sounds like something you would enjoy, or if you would be interested in leading or hosting a group, please let me know by August 20. We will share the full list of groups in early September so others can join the fun.

I'm really looking forward to seeing what kinds of groups we create together, and I hope you will consider being part of it!

Yours in Christ,
Pastor Ashley
